College of Fine Arts and Communications
College Meeting, November 7, 2002
Dean’s Address

Review of College Emphases:
2000 - Leadership Jazz (we probably need to repeat this!)
2000 - Educating Zion – our spiritual and philosophical heritage – a compass!
2001 - Centering the Arts in Christ
2001 - Focus on students and best learning practices (“Where’s the student?”)
2002 - A Culture of Creativity – a divine heritage that should be continually fostered

Review of University Mission (book mark)
Aims of a BYU Education
President Bateman’s 2002-2003 Objectives

Moving On:
1. Prepare to find the right students
   Be a diversity seeker (intellectual, racial, artistic, etc.)
   Be out there (Network with alumni and friends constantly.)
   Be visible (Don’t hide your light! Let others know what you are doing.)
   Be unified (Develop and depend on synergy.)
2. Prepare to assist the right students get the right education
   Be viable (Offer what the right students need to succeed.)
   Be a model learner (Change is good!)
   Be a willing and engaged mentor
   Be informed, enthusiastic, and skillful
   Be technology-wise (Neil Postman and TLT - Technopoly)
   Be patient and understanding (Remember the Creation. Let them learn!)
3. Prepare students to succeed after graduation (inform and assist Career Center)
   Be visionary and encouraging
   Be personal and perceptive (in counseling)
   Be aware and connected (discipline/profession)
   Be honest and realistic
   Be flexible
4. CFAC Learning Environments (teaching and learning units and mentored student labs)
   Communications – NewsNet, BSC, and CAC
   Music – DAP, BCS, and CAC
   Theatre and Media Arts – DAP, MPS, BCS, and CAC
   Visual Arts – MOA, NewsNet, BCS, DAP, and CAC
5. Connecting with the World – Internet2
6. Personal Challenge
   • Be fearless (“If ye are prepared ye shall not fear.”)
   • Be filled with the pure love of Christ (Remember: Faith, hope, and charity are all dependent on the presence and influence of the Holy Ghost. Live to be worthy of this precious gift.)
   • Be centered in Christ. (Let there be no question about where you stand.)
